THE NEWS FROM LONDON.

Two Russian Towns Burned--Persecution of Stambouloff's Widow--The Chen Tu Riots.

Bank of England Statement--Gold Shipments--Antarctic Exploration--Christians in Turkey.

LONDON, Aug. 2.--The Daily News in a leader says: "The document relating to the condition of the Christians in Turkey, published in New York by the Evangelical Alliance is of the utmost importance. The Americans' share therein is peculiarly acceptable because America has absolutely no political interests in Turkey. It goes to prove that nothing is so futile as to entrust the Turks with administration. As it is, the Powers have accepted the nomination of Shakh Pasha as the guardian angel of the new reforms, a man whose chief exploit is the organization of that dreadful nomadic cavalry, which is only Kurd with the government stamp." The correspondent of the Times at Shanghai telegraphs that a commission under Consul Tratman, the composition of which cannot be regarded as adequate, has been ordered to go to Chen Tu to inquire into the recent riots there, in which it was feared at one time that the British and American missionaries had been killed.

Sir Thomas Francis Wade, K.C.B., G.C.M.G., who died at Cambridge to-day was born about 1820 and entered the army in 1838, serving afterwards in China and elsewhere. In 1843 he was appointed interpreter to the garrison of Hong Kong, and was for many years in the government service in the country, during which he acquired a familiarity with the native character and language. In 1871 he was appointed Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary and Chief Superintendent of British trade in China. He was advanced to the rank of K.C.B. in 1875 for his exertions in negotiating important treaties with the Chinese government and obtaining trading facilities in that empire. He retired on a pension in 1883.

Count Monterra, chief of the Cuban reform party, in an interview upon the state of affairs in the island of Cuba, says that operations against the insurgents would be commenced in earnest during the autumn and that before the winter set in the rebellion would be over. The insurgents, he added, were short of ammunition and the leaders lacked prestige. The principal thing to do, in the opinion of Count Monterra, is to watch the coast to prevent outside help from reaching the insurgents. The Count said that public opinion in the interior of the island is in favor of the insurrection and that this feeling is increasing.

Previous to the decision being arrived at to hold the next session of the International Geographical Congress in Berlin, the Norwegian explorer, Borchgrevink, concluded his account of the voyage which he made to the Antarctic regions, and said he believed that there existed in the extreme South a great continent having an area of about eight million miles and containing many animals unknown to the inhabitants of the Northern hemisphere. In conclusion he said that the time was now ripe for an expedition to those regions. The congress passed a resolution to the effect that the exploration of the Antarctic regions formed the greatest work still to be undertaken, and that in view of the addition of knowledge to every branch of science which would result from such exploration the congress desires the scientific societies of the world to urge in the most effective manner that the work be undertaken before the close of the century.

THE LIQUOR TRAFFIC.

Opening of the Case for the Province of Ontario Before H. M. Privy Council.

LONDON, Aug. 1.--(Special).--Before the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council to-day there was a strong array of counsel to argue the appeal of the province of Ontario against a decision of the Supreme Court as to the right of the province to regulate the traffic and manufacture of liquor. Mr. J. J. MacLaren, Q.C., on behalf of the province spoke at great length, citing many cases to support the contentions of the province. Lord Watson, a member of the committee, remarked during the course of Mr. MacLaren's address, that it was questionable whether the Dominion parliament should lose so great a power to hand it over to the province, and further said that some of the arguments advanced by Mr. MacLaren contained no force. Hon. Edward Blake was present representing the Brewers and Distillers Association of Ontario and was prepared with an address, but it appears as if he would not be required to deliver it. Mr. Hadden, M.P., is associated with Mr. MacLaren. Messrs. Newcombe, Christopher Robinson, Sir Oliver Mowat, Emilius Irving, C. W. Moss, N. W. Hoyle and other leading counsel are also present representing the several interests. At the close of Mr. MacLaren's address the further hearing was adjourned until to-morrow morning.

RAINS AND CLOUD BURSTS.

Colorado, New Mexico and Wyoming Visited--Heavy Destruction of Life and Property.

DENVER, Aug. 1.--Colorado has been visited for two days with the most disastrous rains and cloud bursts in the history of the state. At Golden Gulf all trains are tied up because the track up Clear Creek canyon had been washed out in several places, and four bridges were carried away. The town of Socorro, New Mexico, was inundated by a mountain stream on Tuesday and hundreds of people were made homeless. Six members of the Durane family were drowned. The loss is estimated at one million dollars. A disastrous cloudburst occurred on Tuesday night at Casper, Wyoming. A freighter and family named Newby, camped on Garden creek, were in bed when the flood came upon them, and without a moment's warning they were hurled into a mass of water and debris. Mr. Newby only escaped.

At Catekill, in New Mexico, the Red river went on the rampage, bridges were washed and several families had to flee for their lives. From a score of other points on the mountain comes reports of heavy rains and cloud bursts. Travel on all the mountain roads is interfered with and it will be weeks before the damage to some of them is repaired.

A freight train on the Florence and Cripple Creek railway was caught in a landslide and derailed near Adelaide. A succession of cloud bursts occurred at the head of Eight Mile Creek, about twelve miles north of Adelaide. Three lives were lost and four employees of the railroad were injured in a collision. President Johnson, of the Florence and Cripple Creek railroad, put large forces at work to-day repairing the extensive washouts caused by the cloudbursts. It is believed that the road can be reopened in about ten days. The damage to railroad and other property is estimated at $35,000. The supposed death list of eight at Adelaide is now reduced to three. The three trainmen who were caught in the flood are now said to have escaped.

HOLMES INTERVIEWED.

The Man Accused of Many Murders Explains the Presence of the Bones and Other Circumstances.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 1.--H. H. Holmes, being interviewed in reference to the finding of the human bones in the Chicago "Castle," the Cigrand and other mysterious transactions, said: "Every person who has known me is aware I am a doctor by profession. It is also known perfectly well in Chicago that there was a restaurant in my building, No. 71 Wallace street during the World's fair. At that time there were lots of bones from fowls and other cooked animals thrown outside the building. Lots of these bones, no doubt, found their way to the cellar. During the time I lived in the building I brought several cadavers there for scientific and pecuniary purposes. This may account for the bones the Chicago police say they have found. In speaking of the Emiline P. Cigrand mystery, Holmes said: "I employed Emiline Cigrand in May, 1892, as a typewriter. I engaged her from one of the regular Chicago typewriter bureaus. She remained in my employ until October, 1893. She was a good and virtuous girl as far as I know. A respectable business man and a personal friend of mine knows that the girl was alive and well one year after she left my employ. If she is dead she has gone to heaven." Continuing, Holmes said: "I regard Pat Quinlan, my former janitor, in the light of being persecuted. I pity his unfortunate position. The treatment of Pat by the detectives in Chicago is unjust. He has nothing to confess. This I declare positively."

Holmes then took up and discussed the disappearance of Mrs. Connor, Minnie Williams, the Pitzel children, B. F. Pitzel and Ed. Hatch. He said: "Of Mrs. Connor I know little. She and her husband rented rooms from me. I believe she had trouble with her husband. She left my place. I had no interest in keeping track of her."

They had mentioned nothing of these occurrences until two years later, not even to their families.

Lake Ontario's Low Water.

TORONTO, Aug. 1.--The depth of water in the bay is still on the decrease and is becoming alarming. MUZZLING THE PRESS.

General de Campos Prohibits the Publication of Unauthorized News--Daring Project of Cuban Sympathizers.

HAVANA, Aug. 1.--Captain-General Martinez de Campos has issued the following proclamation: "There being instances, often and repeatedly, in which the press publishes facts, news and correspondence which mislead public opinion and tend to favor the work of the insurgent force and to damage that of the national army, I avail myself of the right that the article of the law of April 3, 1870, bestows on me, and I decree the following:

Article 1--It is absolutely prohibited to publish news referring to the campaign when it is not of official origin.

Article 2--The staff officers will hand to the press the news and facts, the publicity of which is not included in the above clause. (Signed) Campos, Cienfuegos, July 29."

The insurgent chief, Rodriguez, formerly associated with Carlos Castillo, has been killed in an engagement with the civil guard at the Vendida plantation, near Guantanamo.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 1.--The Evening Bulletin to-day has the following: At a secret meeting of Cuban sympathizers in this city yesterday a daring project was revealed. It was nothing less than a plan to steal the dynamite cruiser Vesuvius from League Island navy yard, man her with a crew of picked men and send her to Havana to lay Moro castle in ruins and seal the fate of Spanish dominion in the gem of the Antilles. The scheme has caused a great deal of excitement. The more conservative Cuban Americans denounce it and its projectors, and warned those present not to allow themselves to countenance the idea, which would only tend to weaken the sympathy of the American people from the insurgents' cause.

TO FIND GOLD.

Where the Valuable Metal Is to be Expected and Looked for.

Valuable Suggestions for the Prospector of Base as well as Precious Ores.

(By H. S. Osborn, LL.D.)

In studying the geologic aspect of this subject and making the practical application of our knowledge to the search, we may state that the original position of gold must have been in great depths. From these depths it has been brought up by the upheaval of the granitic rocks, and, perhaps, along with basaltic and other intrusions shot up from immense depths. In the course of ages the attrition and breaking down of these higher or uplifted levels and the long continued floods, rains, and the waves of ancient oceans and other disintegrating forces which produced the sedimentary rocks, at the same time liberated the gold, which was incapable of decomposition. The gold thus found new and varied resting places in the sedimentary rocks of various ages and in all the conditions which the surface might assume.

The quartz rocks are neither igneous nor sedimentary, but are supposed to have been in liquid form as solutions of silica, which, during long periods of time gradually deposited the silica and whatever they contained, the water disappearing by evaporation or absorption.

Frequently, cellular quartz has been found with gold within the cells, the material which surrounded the gold having become decomposed, and, thus releasing the undecomposed gold, the latter is found in the cells of the quartz.

Gold, therefore, is to be expected and looked for in granitic regions and in those rocks and from those gravels and sands which owe their origin to such regions. It requires much judgment, general exploration and knowledge of the region before the prospector can, with probability, expect to meet with gold, or before he should begin the search. But with a full knowledge of the geologic condition of the country and acting in accordance with the above facts, the prospector will soon come upon traces of gold if any exist.

Beside the general instruction given above, considerable study should be given to the peculiar and seeming irregular deposits of gold where it does not appear to have been washed down from any higher levels. For instance, in California and some other districts free gold has been found in drifts and sands in the beds of streams which have not only been filled up, but have been buried under regions of sandstone or other rocks, but the whole country apparently has been raised, or the surrounding region has sunk so as not to show any very considerable elevation beyond where the gold deposits have been formed. But even in this case the general rule has been shown to be correct, for these deposits have been proved to be in the beds or channels of ancient rivers, which had either been dried up or overflowed by vast currents of lava or basalt, and again by floods bringing new soil and creating sedimentary rock, or the country has been raised, or subsidence of a great extent of land has taken place. In many cases, however, no subsidence has occurred, but only overflow and filling up through ages, and the actual sources still remain elevated.

Such events as we have just described, do not transpire without leaving, in some parts, traces or features or material, which, to the practised eye of a skillful prospector, are evidences of some such improvements and changes, and he may proceed to make a successful opening only after he has carefully examined a large tract of country, for it is from extended survey that he may the more wisely judge of the relation of superficial parts to the greater depths of even small areas.

These rocks which lie more immediately over the granite and which, although they owe their origin to a sedimentary condition, have been subjected to heat and heated waters, as is supposed, we have called "metamorphic rocks." But they have been, probably, first formed from the disintegration of the most ancient rocks and have brought with them fragments of gold. These metamorphic rocks have been changed from ordinary sedimentary rock by the action of heat and by pressure, and the influence of such treatment may be suspected by their appearance as crystalline in their composition, that is, the fine grains which compose them, as well as the larger grains, are angular, whereas the materials of purely sedimentary rocks are fine and without angular shape. The larger part of granite is supposed to have been metamorphic or changed, as the word means, or "altered," merely by the action of heat into a crystalline form or mass.

The igneous rocks are those whose forms are due to having been melted and driven to the surface through fissures in the overlying rocks. They are variously composed of feldspar, hornblende, little quartz, with comparatively small proportions of other substances, and are called by various names according to the composition. The metamorphic granite contains quartz, feldspar, and mica, the igneous granite contains little or no quartz. Syenite-granite contains hornblende in place of mica. Sometimes the mica is very black, as hornblende is, and in that case may be distinguished from the latter by its more easy cleavage, as we have shown, under a sharp penknife; this black mica is the kind that is described as biotite. There is a syenite which contains no quartz called hypopyroxene. These rocks are not the original home of gold, but at present it is very largely in these metamorphic rocks that the most paying gold is to be found, more especially in the quartz veins which have intersected these rocks. One, therefore, of the most important studies of the prospector is to acquaint himself familiarly with the appearance, the locations, and the departures of these metamorphic rocks. In many places where the alluvial gold, derived from the gold-bearing gravels, has almost ceased to be worth working, there still remain sources undiscovered, and these sources may probably be traced back even yet to some outcrop or to some ancient elevation now being subsided.

The above remarks are applicable to explorations for other metallic ores than gold. They apply to silver, and especially to tin ores, and with some modifications to copper ores, and also to quicksilver.—Western Mining World.

"Mamma, was that a sugar-plum you just gave me?" asked little Mabel. "No, dear, it was one of Dr. Ayer's pills." "Please may I have another?" "Not now, dear; one of those nice pills is all you need at present, because every dose is effective."

VANCOUVER.

VANCOUVER, Aug. 1.—Numerous Vancouverites have recently reached the summit of Mount Crown, directly opposite Vancouver. Last night a bonfire was lighted on the top by Messrs. Shaw, Robertson and Henry. At the highest altitude the snow is forty feet deep, and some of the ascents are extremely difficult. There is little animal life on the mountain. Edwards Bros., photographers, have some excellent views taken on the summit. Whilst the photographers were on the topmost peak a tremendous landslide occurred 100 yards away, badly frightening them and hastening their descent. This landslide took away one of the two peaks on the summit.

Word has been received from Barkerville that F. C. Laird, of Vancouver, had met with a severe accident, having fallen into a gulch whilst prospecting. He was found half a mile from home in an unconscious condition.

EVIDENCE ACCUMULATING.

More Deeds of Darkness Alleged to Be the Work of Holmes.

Noxious Gases That Were Evidently Used to Make Away With the Victims.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Aug. 1.—Convict Allen being interviewed to-day, said: "My name is Caldwell, but I have passed under the aliases of Allen and Osgood, and was known at Fort Worth often as Mascot. I can unravel the Fort Worth swindle if I am paid for it, and I can show that Minnie Williams was not murdered. I heard from her a few months ago, and she is afraid to come to this country." When reminded that in turning state's evidence Quinlan might put him in a bad place and convict Holmes, he said, with some excitement: "Quinlan shall never be allowed to have Holmes hanged, for of the two Holmes is more of a gentleman, and as for me he does not know anything. If he did I would have left the country." Allen seemed much attached to Holmes, and says that he will not testify against him in a criminal suit, because Holmes always treated him well. He denies ever assuming the alias of Hatch.

There is hardly any doubt but that the man Pratt, mentioned in a recent Topeka dispatch as having lived there, and H. H. Holmes are one and the same man. Allen or "Mascot," the convict in prison, says Holmes went by the name of Pratt in Texas. Allen spends most of his time reading the newspaper. He said, "I know Pat Quinlan. He came to Fort Worth when Pratt (Holmes) and I were there, but would not take charge of things because of the shape they were in. Lyman (Pitzel) acted badly there. He drank a great deal and became intimated with a dashing widow. Pratt had with him then a woman whom he called Jeannette. I knew all the time his name was Holmes and also knew that he had five or six living wives. I travelled a great deal with him and we both visited the Hot Springs together. Holmes had the most winning ways towards women of any man I ever saw and never mixed up with any that were not good looking. He was also mild-mannered, courteous and affable towards men." There was a moment's pause and "Mascot" continued, "but I am not going to tell what I know until the thing is fixed to suit me." There is perhaps no manner of swindling that Allen is not familiar with. Some people believe that he is engaged in a slick attempt to gain his liberty by bartering his knowledge of Holmes' criminal career, a knowledge that may have to be taken with a grain of salt.

CHICAGO, Aug. 1.—Arrangements have been completed for taking the testimony of John C. Allen, the Little Rock, Ark., convict, which is expected to convict H. H. Holmes of murder. Chief of Police Badenoch is not particularly enthusiastic over the Little Rock end of the investigation, "Allen may be able to convict Holmes," said the chief, "but I do not regard it as certain." Attorney Capps declared that his statements regarding the convict had been exaggerated. "I am not certain this man can convict Holmes," he said, "I am hopeful, however, and will go to Little Rock to investigate."

Holmes, not long ago, asserted that Hatch took the Pitzel children to Toronto in company with Minnie Williams, and that if he could be found he would clear up the mystery of their death. Detectives working on the case in the West have evidence that Hatch came West after the visit to Toronto, and was caught stealing horses in Arkansas.

Workmen began yesterday to saw away the cedar vat where it is said Holmes manufactured gas, to see if there is any connection between this vat and the big tank uncovered on Monday evening. Experiments with the liquid found in the bottom of the vat in the cellar of Holmes' house show that whenever mixed with benzene or kerosene it emitted a vapor so deadly that no human being could live in it. Whether or not Holmes used the vapor for suffocating his victims is not known, but the police are inclined to favor such a theory.

Holmes, when questioned by Chief of Police Badenoch, said he was hired by a man named Allen to go to Fort Worth, Tex. Quinlan had previously claimed that he had no knowledge of any crime committed by Holmes, although he had admitted in Fort Worth he met and knew a man called Mascot. Now that Allen and Mascot are practically proven to be one and the same man, Quinlan's contradictory stories have placed him in a still worse light.

The police have discovered the means by which the mark of a woman's foot became printed on the inside of the vault door. While examining the oil under the microscope the expert got some of the oil on his hand, and later placed two of his fingers on an iron plate in the laboratory. In a short time afterwards he noticed that the marks of his fingers were distinctly visible on the iron, and all efforts to rub it off were futile. A test of the acid oil was then made, but a finer test on this point is to be applied. The explanation of the footprint on the iron door is that one of his alleged victims in her struggles upset the bowl of oil and placed her foot in the liquid, which had run over the floor, and then in her struggles, placed her foot against the door, leaving the tell-tale mark. In addition to the other tests, an effort will be made to-morrow to see if the vapor given off by the liquids will burn.

The police were to-day informed that at the time that Holmes was first supposed to have left Chicago he did not go any further away than the stockyards district, where he kept a restaurant under the name of H. H. Howard. He employed a number of young women waitresses, and is said to have had a new force nearly every day. Among them were two girls who came from Wisconsin. A few nights after they began to work the neighborhood was startled by female screams coming from the Howard restaurant. Several men ran to the building and were in time to meet the two girls as they ran out of the hall which led into the houses. They were clad only in their night clothes, and it was some minutes before they could be quieted sufficiently to tell their story. They said they had been sleeping together, and had been awakened by a man who gained an entrance to their room, and who had placed a white cloth over their faces. The cloth had been saturated with chloroform, they thought. Neighbors took the two girls in and cared for them, said before the police had an opportunity of arresting Howard he disappeared.

Harry Walker, of Greensburg, Ind., is now believed by his friends to have been a victim of Holmes. Walker, it is said, was induced by Holmes to have his life insured for $10,000 in Holmes' favor. He came to Chicago and in November, 1893, wrote to friends that he was at work for Holmes.

ALL MOTHERS WHO HAVE USED DALMO-TAR SOAP KNOW THAT IT IS THE BEST BABY SOAP for healing the delicate skin of Sore.

Baby was troubled with sores on head and legs. I tried "Dalmo-Tar Soap." In a very short time the sores disappeared, skin became smooth and white, and the child got perfectly well. Mrs. HOLTMAN, Creditor.

Only 25c. Big Cake.

Suddenly his letters ceased, but search revealed no trace of him in Chicago.

Pat Quinlan was given a two hours' session in the sweat box to-day, but the result was unsatisfactory. He gives no evidence of weakening, and stubbornly sticks to his statement that he knows absolutely nothing of any killing. The police received word to-day of the mysterious hauling away from the Holmes' house at night of several large boxes. They were taken from the "Castle" during Holmes' residence there, and several detectives were detailed on the new lead in the case.

The police acknowledge to-day their complete defeat so far in their efforts to secure direct evidence of murder against H. H. Holmes. Dozens of promising clues have been carefully investigated and witness after witness, who was confidently expected to tell all, has been examined without result.

FORT WORTH, Tex., Aug. 1.—Allen, the Arkansas convict, who is so anxious to tell his connection with the murders, was at one time in the employ of Holmes in this city. Allen went by the name of Mascot in this city, and it is believed can tell a great deal about Holmes and his transactions. Allen was an ex-convict from the prison at Joliet. While Holmes, or Pratt, as he was known here, was living in this city he started to put up a large building. In view of the recent developments in Chicago the authorities have made an investigation of the building, which leaves no room for doubt that he had planned it for a death trap. One room at the top of the house has twelve exits by which a person can escape. An enclosed chute runs down to the basement of the building, in which a body could be transferred without any one being the wiser. In the basement a large archway had been built over the sewer in such a way that he could easily put in a trap door opening into the sewer. Under the floor of the house was found a large pit, the intended use of which can only be conjectured. Holmes probably intended this building to be used as he afterwards used his house in Chicago.

INDIANAPOLIS, Aug. 1.—"I think we'll have to wait until Holmes tells where to find Howard Pitzel. He knows and we cannot find out." So said Detective Geyer, who has been in town over a week, hunting a house supposed to have been rented by Holmes while he was here. So far the search has resulted in nothing, and now the detective says that he has not the slightest clue to work on. He expects to be recalled to Philadelphia soon, and says that if the body of Howard Pitzel is found it will be because Holmes weakens enough to inform the officers what disposition was made of him.

NEW YORK, Aug. 1.—A dispatch from Boston states that Holmes persuaded Mabel Barrett, an orphan 18 years of age, to come to that city in July, 1893, ostensibly to secure a position. The Barrett girl went to Boston in answer to an advertisement for a companion, and was lured into a house of ill-repute, from which she was rescued by a charitable woman. Through an advertisement she became acquainted with one Minnie Williams, who is supposed to be the woman Holmes is accused of killing in Chicago. All trace of Mabel Barrett was lost after she left Boston.

WICHITA, Kan., Aug. 1.—The British vice-consul at Kansas City has appointed an agent in this city to thoroughly investigate the career of Frank Pratt, whose criminal practices and adventures bear a striking resemblance to those of H. H. Holmes. It is believed by many here that Holmes and Pratt are identical.

THE NEW GOVERNMENT.

There is a good deal of speculation both as to the nature of the new Imperial Government and as to how it will get on. Is it a coalition or an alliance? and will the dissimilar elements of which it is formed blend together and make a harmonious whole or will it turn out a case of incompatibility both of temper and of principle? It can easily be seen that if the different members of the Cabinet are tenacious of their individual opinions, if they are exacting and in the least disposed to be disagreeable, the Government will be the reverse of a happy family. Forbearance, self-restraint and to a certain extent self-abnegation are virtues which they all, from the Prime Minister downwards, will be required to practise. Mr. Stead, who probably knows as much about the public men of Great Britain as anyone outside the political four hundred, in a lively and interesting character sketch of the members of the new Cabinet in the July number of the Review of Reviews, speaking of the influence which the Duke of Devonshire and Mr. Chamberlain are likely to exercise in the new Cabinet, says that—"They will be disposed to claim at least an equal voice in all discussions of the Government with those of their Conservative colleagues. It will be well indeed," he goes on to say, "if Mr. Chamberlain can be induced to be contented with this. During the last Conservative Administration Mr. Chamberlain and the Duke of Devonshire exercised from time to time outside the Cabinet an authority which they certainly will not wish to see diminished by their acceptance of direct responsibility."

"There will spring from this of necessity a certain duality of mind in the Cabinet which can hardly be a source of strength, which may be an element of weakness, and which possibly may result before long in disruption. Of only one thing we can be sure, and that is, as long as the new Cabinet persists in the negative policy of simply putting a veto on Home Rule it will have no difficulty in keeping together. But the more Home Rule recedes into the background, the more difficult will it be for Mr. Chamberlain and Mr. Balfour to walk hand in hand. The union of the Unionists has indeed no other basis than this:—as all Irishmen are said to be against the Government whatever it may be, so all Unionists are 'agin' Home Rule whatever may be the meaning of that phrase. But as the imminence of what they regard as the Home Rule danger united them, so when Home Rule recedes, and in proportion as Home Rule recedes into the dim distance, the centrifugal tendency which exists in all composite bodies moving at great velocity through space will assert itself, and we may have a Cabinet that does not know its own mind, because it cannot come to a decision as to which of its two minds is the right one. It may be objected to this that the new Cabinet is a body which, whatever else it may do or refrain from doing, will not move with too great velocity in any direction whatever. The instinct of self-preservation will reinforce the inertia common to all created things, and ministers will recognize as the law of their being that they should either do nothing at all or as little as possible lest they go to pieces in the operation."

Very few, we presume, will be inclined to take Mr. Stead as infallible, but those who know anything of British journalism must admit that he is shrewd and that his analysis of the composition of the Government and his forecast as to the course which it will be safe for it to pursue are worthy of as much consideration as those of most journalists. Mr. Stead evidently looks upon Mr. Chamberlain as the disturbing element. If trouble is to come he will most probably be the cause of it. His description of the Radical member of the present Government may not be exactly correct, but it is entertaining. He sees a good deal of resemblance between Lord Randolph Churchill and the present Secretary of State for the Colonies. "Alone," he says, "among Lord Salisbury's colleagues nine years ago Lord Randolph had energy, individuality and ideas. Mr. Chamberlain is equally notable in the present Administration. There is a very strong resemblance between the two men. Both regarded the world from the circle of the crown of their own hats. No other two divided the universe so distinctly into two sections, the I and the not I—the ego and the non ego—and probably no two men agreed more absolutely in believing that the importance of the ego transcended infinitely the rest of the universe. Both found themselves in a position of comparative solitude. No doubt Lord Randolph had his followers as Mr. Chamberlain has his sympathizers, but practically they stood alone each in his own Cabinet."

"Mr. Chamberlain, like Lord Randolph Churchill, regards himself as the statesman who has to save the Cabinet, even against its will, from perishing in the morass of inaction. It is not too much to say that Mr. Chamberlain, like Lord Randolph Churchill, regards himself as the vital soul of the Administration. The other members who are with him in the Cabinet are more or less inert matter, which is without form and void until it has been breathed upon by the creative genius of the member from Birmingham."

Lord Salisbury, it is said, has a pretty good opinion of his own ability, and he is not backward when occasion requires to assert his authority. It is well-known how he set upon Lord Randolph when his bumptiousness became inconvenient and, indeed, offensive. He may, under similar circumstances, treat Mr. Chamberlain in the same way and with the same result. It may be that Mr. Chamberlain, warned by Lord Randolph's fate, will be more discreet than that unfortunate nobleman, and if he does become truculent will choose a more favorable time to make his "kick."

A NEW INDUSTRY.

A new industry has been started in the state of Oregon. It is an establishment for the utilization of the unnecessary horses of the state. It is well known that there are parts both of Oregon and Washington which are overrun by horses in a semi-wild state, of which no use could be hitherto made. There was no market for them and they devoured grass which was needed for feeding and fattening more profitable stock. Some enterprising business men knowing that horseflesh is in request in some countries as food and also knowing that the fat and bones and hides and hoofs of the animals could all be made use of, devised a scheme for the utilization of the unnecessary horses. They erected a large slaughter house and factory. Between five and six thousand horses were purchased at very low prices. These horses were corralled at the factory and killed. Their flesh was boiled to try out the fat, their bones and the offal of the establishment were converted into a fertilizer, their hides were kept for the tanner, their hams were pickled to be sent to Europe, and the rest of their carcasses were converted into merchantable commodities. It is expected that the herds of cayuses, which have become a nuisance, will in this way give employment to many persons and be made to add to the prosperity of the state.

The processes necessary to utilize the animals are not pretty to look at or indeed agreeable to any of the senses. But, as we all know, the useful and the beautiful do not always go together. The people of the states of Oregon and Washington are to be congratulated upon the prospect of getting rid of what threatened to be a nuisance by some other means than that of wholesale and most profitable slaughter.

Nothing is said at the horse-utilizing establishment of eating horse flesh, and the public are informed that not a particle of it is permitted to be taken from the premises on any pretext whatever. This rule, though it may have disappointed some enterprising sausage makers, will make the minds of the citizens of Portland and other cities easy. The horse hams that are preserved are not to be used on this continent. They are to be exported to Europe, where hungry people with lean purses eat them without a qualm. It is to be hoped that the fat is used only as a lubricator and by the manufacturers of soap. It would be a dreadful thing if by any chance any of it found its way to butter factories.

THE SEA SERPENT.

We every now and then hear that the sea serpent is seen by those who go down to the sea in ships. It is unfortunate that this creature makes itself visible in the dull and stupid season when news is scarce. Many people make a rule of treating these sea serpent stories as the impudent inventions of story-telling mariners, and a contemptuous denial of the existence of any such monster as the sea serpent has become an article—to use an Hibernianism—of the popular creed. But this scepticism, like a good deal of the scepticism relative to much more important matters, is very far from being an evidence of the superior intelligence of the sceptic. A little inquiry will show that many persons of good character and of more than average intelligence have believed that they have seen the creature which for want of a better name has been called the sea serpent. The animal is said to have made no fewer than 126 appearances at different times and hundreds who saw it have been ready to swear that their eyes had not deceived them. Among others who saw the sea serpent were Captain McQuhae of H. M. S. Dædalus and his crew. It was seen in August, 1848. In a letter to the Admiralty Captain McQuhae described the serpent as being some "sixty feet long, of a dark brown color, with no fins, but something like a mane on the back of its neck." He and his crew saw it plainly as it passed the vessel. In 1849 Captain Hon. George Hope of the English warship Fly reported that in the Gulf of Mexico, "the weather being perfectly calm and the water transparent, he saw plainly visible at the bottom of the Gulf a great sea monster. It had somewhat the appearance of an alligator, only the neck was much longer and instead of legs or feet it had four fan-shaped flappers similar to those on a turtle, the front pair being larger than those behind. Ring stripes were about its body. The monster appeared to be following its prey at the bottom of the sea, its movements being distinctly serpentine."

Here we have the evidence of two officers of the British navy, gentlemen of character and intelligence, as to the existence of the "sea serpent." And not only did they see it but the crews of their vessels saw it also and were ready to corroborate what their commanders had reported regarding the creature.

Detailed descriptions are given by many persons of sea-serpents which they in company with others saw. The creatures were seen in broad daylight when the observers by the aid of glasses had good opportunities of observing them. It seems to us folly to conclude that these persons were all lying or that they had been deceived. Consequently when Capt. Hazard, of the New Hampshire, declared that he and others the other day saw off Falkner's Island, about twelve miles east of New Haven, what he describes as a "mighty snake plowing its way eastward about fifty yards distant," there is no good reason to consider that he was either lying or laboring under a delusion. The pilot and the passengers also saw the creature. Were they all lying or did their eyes deceive them?

A FALSE STATEMENT.

We quite agree with the Times that the statements which it makes with regard to the Government "should be investigated." Inquiry generally shows that they are, like the one it published on Wednesday about the rock used in sinking the mattresses at the mouth of the Fraser river, either wholly false or the truth maliciously distorted and mangled. There was not the shadow of an excuse for the false representations which the organ made with respect to the rock. Mr. Gamble could easily be found and he would readily either confirm the story with which the Times had been stuffed or show that it was false from beginning to end. If the word of the organ of the Opposition is not to be depended on with regard to what is happening in this Province and almost in the neighborhood of Victoria, what value is to be placed on its accounts of what is alleged to have happened in distant parts of the Dominion?

The butter itself is of exceptionally fine color and quality and this being the main thing, the company should soon have all the orders on their hands that can be attended to. Fresh cream and all other items of creamery production will also be supplied, and this newest industry of the province promises to be a financial success from the very beginning, as it deserves to be.

YESTERDAY Mr. F. C. Gamble, resident engineer of the Dominion public works department, was shown the editorial which appeared in Wednesday's Times. In this article it was said: "There is a report circulated freely to the effect that rock used in sinking mattresses at the mouth of the Fraser river has been taken from a quarry which really belongs to the Dominion government, while private persons have been paid for it as catenabile owners of the quarry." Upon reading this "report" Mr.
Gamble gave the whole thing an emphatic denial. "In the first place," he said, "the Dominion has never paid for any rock at all for this mattress work." Mr. Gamble went on to explain that up to three or four years ago the mattress work was done by contract, but even then the contractors were not paid one cent for rock. T. E. Sinclair, at one time contractor for the mattresses, filed, through his Westminster agents, on a quarter section of land on Pitt Lake, intending to take up the quarry from the mouth of the rock for the mattresses was taken. He filed on the wrong section, however. Mr. Gamble knowing the value of the quarry to the government for the river improvements, advised that the quarry should be retained, and it still belongs to the government. For the past few years the mattresses have been laid by days' work under Mr. Gamble's supervision instead of by contract, and the rock has been taken from the government quarry. Consequently the "report" in the Times that "the country has been buying its own improvement material from speculators."

William Wallace society to-night, taking as his subject "Bacilli." The lecture will be illustrated and should prove very interesting.

THE waterworks contractors have fifty men at work, and as soon as the coffer dam is finished the number will be considerably increased. The work is progressing satisfactorily.

MR. SPEAKER HIGGINS yesterday issued his warrant to the Registrar of the Supreme court, directing him to issue a writ forthwith for an election to fill the vacancy in the Cowichan-Alberni district.

THE St. Andrew's and Caledonian Society are making great preparations for their game and entertainment to take place on August 24. The choir are practicing every Wednesday evening under Mr. J. G.
Brown's leadership.

THERE were numerous thistle cases in the police court yesterday and fines of $2 50 in each were imposed. The police magistrate has come to the conclusion that sufficient warning has now been given and hereafter $5 fines will be the rule.

TENDERS have been invited by the British Columbia Agricultural Association, receivable up to August 15, for the exhibition week privileges for dining room and kitchen, lunch counter, ice cream and soda water booth, and cigar and tobacco stand.

A MEETING of the police commissioners is to be held this morning in connection with the selection of an additional police officer from among twenty or more well recommended applicants. By the suggestion of Chief Sheppard, and for economic reasons, there will be no appointment to the position of sergeant vacated by the death of Mr. H.
A. Levin for several months.

MISS LAURA AGNEW, who has been studying for the musical profession during the past year with W. Edgar Buck, and who made so favorable an appearance as Leonora in "Il Trovatore" last spring, left by the City of Puebla last evening for San Francisco, where she will follow her chosen profession. Mrs. Agnew accompanies her daughter. Mr. Aspland, whose appearance as Manrico in "Il Trovatore" won high acclamations, has recently been appointed solo tenor in Grace church, San Francisco. This young singer also studied with Mr. Buck.

MR. JAMES MITCHELL, of this city, received the sad intelligence by wire yesterday of the death by drowning at Ottawa of his son-in-law, Mr. Charles Cox, a popular and capable official of the marine and fisheries department. The accident occurred while Mr. Cox was bathing in the river, and by his death a loving wife and daughter are particularly bereaved. The deceased was in the prime of young manhood, but had already won for himself an enviable place in his profession as an engineer. He had many friends in Victoria who will learn with keenest regret of his untimely end.

THE appeals from the city assessment continued yesterday before Mr. Justice Crease. For the Williams estate Mr.
Thornton Fell asked to have the following reductions made: Lot 261, blk. 2a, assessed at $2,400, to $1,600; lot 262, assessed at $1,400, to $800; lot 280, assessed at $4,800, $7,000, to $3,000; lot 182 B, assessed at $8,800, to $5,000; lots 723 4 5 and 6, assessed at $1,400, each to $800 each; lot 750, assessed at $1,300, to $600; part of acre lot 5, assessed at $4,300, to $3,000. Decision was reserved. The appeals will be continued to-day, Senator MacDonald's being taken up

The open air concert this evening at the residence of Hon. D. M. Eberts on Victoria Arm, promises to be a very pleasant and unique affair. An attractive musical programme has been prepared and refreshments will be served during the evening. The concert is under the patronage of Lieut-Governor Dewdney and the proceeds will be devoted to the funds of the Royal Jubilee hospital. The grounds adjoin the land forming Kurtz Point, and the concert can be supplemented by a delightful row. A large bus has also been arranged for, to leave the Transfer stables at 8 o'clock and the Douglas street fountain fifteen minutes later. Admission to the grounds is but twenty-five cents.

THE election of delegates to the provincial convention to be held at Nanaimo from the 17th to the 20th inst. and the preparations for the event occupied almost the entire attention of those in attendance at the W. C.
T. U. meeting yesterday afternoon. The delegates chosen to represent Victoria were:
Mrs. Teague, Mrs. Pendray, Mrs. Humber, Mrs. Flett, Mrs. Crowther, Mrs. (Dr.) Foot, Mrs. McDermid, Mrs. Clyde, Mrs.
Pickard, Mrs. Andrews, Mrs. Burkholder, Mrs. (Capt.) Grant, Mrs. Young, Mrs. Cox and Mrs. Chapman; with alternates, Mrs. (Rev.) Tait, Mrs. (Senator) McInnes, Mrs. Siddall, Mrs. Cleaver, Mrs. (Dr.) Ernest Hall, Mrs. (Dr.) Lewis Hall, Mrs.
Ward, Mrs. Butler, Mrs. Russell and Miss Smith. There will be a consecration meeting of the W.C.T.U. next week led by Mrs.
Tait.

MR. A. J. GALLETT, manager of the Bank of Montreal, has been taking his holidays during the past month. Last week he visited the camp of McQuillan & Childs on China creek, and speaks in terms of pleasure of the outing there enjoyed. The scenery is beautiful beyond description and the air pure and bracing. During his stay Mr.
Gallett had his first experience as a miner.
He prospected with a pan several portions of the hydraulic claim held by McQuillan & Childs, and found gold from the creek side up to a bench a considerable height from the creek. Colors of gold can be found underneath the moss on the surface of the ground. So far as he could judge, the ground gives excellent prospect of proving a rich mine when developed. To all who are in search of a place where a holiday may be passed in a delightful and beneficial way Mr. Gallett recommends a trip to Alberni.

Serious Fight Aboard the Vessel at Port Townsend—Mail Boat Movements.

Yesterday's Port Townsend Leader gives an account of a fight on board the well known Victoria bark Thermopylae, of which the following is a summary:

"Early this morning as the anchor of the British bark Thermopylae, lumber laden for the United Kingdom, was being weighed, a fight took place that will in all probability cause the death of the second mate of that vessel. Primed with bad whiskey, a sailor named Cunningham went on board his vessel and turned in to sleep off the effects of his drink. When called at midnight, he turned out and started to help heave up anchor. The second mate ordered him to put more life in his work. Receiving a surly reply he called for help and the mate responded, and the two started toward the man to make him do as he was bid. A scuffle followed, and the second mate, E. S. Cook, was cut by the sailor, once in the shoulder and again in the abdomen. The first named wound is a slight one and will do no harm, but Dr. Willison, who attended the wounded man, is afraid that the wound in the abdomen may prove fatal. The man's condition at the time of the doctor's arrival was so serious that Dr. Willison would not order him to the hospital, but made him as comfortable as possible on board the ship to be subsequently taken to hospital. Cunningham was brought ashore by order of British Vice Consul Klockner who had him turned over to Marshal Baker. The usual warrant was not issued as the Thermopylae is a British vessel and Consul Klockner's order is sufficient to detain the man. The bark will remain here until the proper proceedings are taken against Cunningham and a second mate procured. It is not expected that this will take long, as in all probability the witnesses will make the necessary depositions and then be released to proceed on their voyage.

CAPTAIN BECK, who, as already mentioned, is in Victoria in the interest of a proposed institution for the adult blind, yesterday paid a visit to Esquimalt and was very kindly received by Admiral Stephenson and Captain Finnis, on board the flagship, as well as by other officers of the navy, who raised a substantial subscription in aid of the funds of this deserving enterprise.

THE funeral of the late Samuel Gray took place yesterday afternoon from the residence of his son, E. J. Gray, Douglas street, in the presence of a large number of sympathizing friends. Rev. J. F. Betts, of the Centennial Methodist church, conducted the services there and at Ross Bay cemetery. The following gentlemen acted as pall-bearers: N. Shakespeare, John Teague, David Spencer, M. Humber, John McConnell, and F.
Ray. Mr. Gray was one of the Salvation Army's most liberal benefactors in Victoria, although he never joined the ranks here.
According to the San Francisco papers he had become a member a short time previous to his death. "A few months ago," that paper says, "he came to Oakland for the benefit of his health, and was the guest of George Montgomery, the rich salivatorist of Berkeley. Gray saw the work that was being done and attended a number of meetings. A few days ago he made a visit to the Rescue Home and while there was suddenly taken ill. His death, however, was entirely unexpected. The funeral was held on the 25th inst., under the auspices of the Salvation Army at San Francisco. Six stalwart soldiers carried the bier into the old theatre building, where the services were conducted under the direction of Brigadier General Keppel, who spoke in glowing terms of the work that had been done by the deceased in Victoria. Then the soldiers sang songs and prayed for old 'Father Gray.' Mr. Gray was the senior member of the Haddington Island Stone Quarry Co. He was born in Aberdeen, Hertfordshire, Eng., June 6, 1830 and in 1872 went to Chicago. Three years after he went to San Francisco coming to Victoria in 1879.

A CORONER'S jury will to-day go through the formality of deciding how, when and in what manner A. J. Rowbotham, of this city, came to his death some time yesterday morning, although the facts of the case point strongly to suicide. Mr. Rowbotham has for many months been suffering keenly from melancholia. On the night of August 6 last it will be remembered that he was found in a room over his store on Yates street, a bullet wound behind his right ear —evidently self inflicted—seriously threatening his life. Recovery was slow and it was not until October that the unfortunate man was able to appear in the police court, where he was formally charged with attempting to commit suicide. The case went to the higher court but never came to trial, the Crown entering a nolle prosequi. On that occasion Dr. Frank W. Hall, who had attended the injured man, concluded his testimony with the statement: "I treated him professionally until two or three weeks ago, when I saw no further necessity of doing so. Mr. Rowbotham was then as well as he is now—as well as he can ever hope to be, for he will never recover." The knowledge of this, coupled with his business misfortunes, have since October weighed very heavily upon Mr. Rowbotham's mind, and on more than one occasion he has said in the presence of friends that the "next time he tried it he would make an end of everything," clearly intimating his fixed determination to end his life. Yesterday morning he was missed from his home on Herald street shortly after breakfast, and a search being instituted his lifeless body was found at about 10 o'clock in a closet at the back of an adjoining unoccupied house.
The rope about the neck by which the corpse was suspended indicated the method adopted. When the body was removed to the morgue and the clothing was searched as customary, letters addressed to Mr. D.
Spencer and to Mr. Baumann, of the Steitz restaurant, were found. There was also a statement, apparently pencilled in a hurry, to the effect that the deed was committed because it offered the easiest solution of his troubles, and commending Lizzie, his wife, to the care of his friends. These papers were taken possession of by the police.

FOR FAIR BICYCLISTS

COMFORTABLE, SAFE AND PICTURESQUE GARMENTS DESCRIBED.

The So Called Advanced Costumes Favored—The Secret of Perfect Dressing—Suitable Goods and Colors—Sunbonnets and Caps—Storm Cloaks and Gloves.

(Copyright, 1895, by American Press Association.)

Bicycle riding has taken such a large place in public attention that nothing said about it can come amiss, particularly when it is something intended to add to the comfort or safety of the fair riders. The time has gone past when any one can sneer at bloomers or knickerbockers, for a refined lady wears them in such a way that they are so much a part of herself that no one thinks about them one way or another. It is not so much what one wears as how one wears it that makes the difference between women on and off their wheels. The bloomer and the special costume for cycling had their origin abroad, and our young ladies were slow to follow the leaders. The foreign costumers have advanced considerably in the matter of providing safe, neat and picturesque garments, and today in Berlin and Paris and along the Riviera one sees really beautiful outfits made so by their suitability for the purpose. Certainly there are extremists who wear the pantalon collant, with a very short jacket, or quite as often simple blouse or fancy sweater, but the majority prefer the loose trousers called bloomers. Here we more often call them knickerbockers.

In Paris now one can purchase an entire outfit, which I shall describe at length, for the secret of perfect dressing is to have everything in keeping. In the first place, we may say that the wise young lady does not choose her outfit for one hour or one day. She looks forward to a whole season, and while no one cares to add to the weight she has to propel the additional weight of a few necessary things is entirely forgotten in the comfort. To begin with, there is a small waterproof bag made so as to lie out flat when unrolled. This has several compartments, in which can be placed the jacket and comb, soap knife and fork, a collapsible drinking cup and two or three clean handkerchiefs. There is now a dainty little sunbonnet of batiste in some light and becoming color, and this will fold almost as small as a handkerchief. For long sunny rides, where dust flies into the ears, hair and neck, these sunbonnets are such a relief and protection. They are pretty too. The fair wearer can wear a cap or other headgear while in the city limits if she likes, but the sunbonnet takes its place when on the long, dusty roads.

When all the little belongings are snugly packed in the pockets of the bag, it can be tightly rolled and strapped to the handle bar. These bags have a leather handle fastened to one part so that they can be carried if so preferred. The tiny tool box and lamp are kept in their usual places. Some of the wheels have a little square canopy parasol, but it is said that these impede travel considerably. There is a jointed parasol of black silk, the end of which is fastened to a clamp attached to a strong belt. This is in use abroad to quite an extent.

Few ladies wear corsets on the wheel, or at least the regulation style. A very useful and comfortable substitute for corsets is found in a stiffened belt, which is pointed front and back. This holds the waist snugly and comfortably. This has a front made much like the health corsets, and there are straps going from the shoulders to the belt, and they are made adjustable by means of eyelets and hooks. There are buttons to which the trousers can be attached. Over this corset waist is drawn a sweater with short sleeves, and over this the skirt is fastened, and the jacket comes last. This suit is intended to be worn with the jacket; otherwise the sweater sleeves must be long and loose.

The neatest, most compact and becoming suit of this kind had knickerbockers of dark blue cravatized serge, which is waterproof, while as light as ordinary serge. The leggings were of the same material. The skirt reached about five inches below the knee and was tailor stitched above the hem. On the right side there was a pocket set on like those in men's hunting coats. The jacket was so arranged that it could button across in double breasted style or could be left open down the front. It was finished with two rows of stitching. Many ladies do not like the sweaters, and they wear the jaunty Norfolk jackets, either belted in or left loose. To sum up, the bicycle costume should be light, strong and calculated to resist the elements as much as possible. If a lady wants to look her best on a wheel, she must pay strict attention to all the details. Her undergarments must be flexible, yet firm, her shoes strong and adapted to the purpose and loose enough for perfect comfort. Her stockings must be thick, as she should remember that her legs are more exposed than any part of her body, and she is liable to take cold, and neat leggings, either laced or buttoned, are de rigueur. Every button, cord or pin should be solid and strong, and the hair should be dressed in as snug and close a fashion as possible. Some silk nets are now made which cover the entire head, coming down over the forehead to restrain the bang in form of a veil. The whole is gathered under the knot in the back. This is a real boon to any woman whose hair is "endy."

The dark blue drab, mud brown and dust colors are by all means the best and most suitable for cycling costumes, but very many new suits have been made of gray and also of dull garnet and moss green. A very handsome suit was made of olive green corded velveta. The skirt and leggings were of the same, and so was the snug double breasted Eton jacket. This opened over a silk blouse of pale blue. There was a little jockey cap of the same velveta. This material is strong, and it does not crease or lose its rich firmness. It can be obtained in all sorts of colors suitable for such rough work as riding a wheel, but it is rather a heavy stuff. Still, if one wants an everlasting suit, this will fill the want.

There remains but one more toilet requisite, and that is the gloves. The thick sueded are worn, so are dogskin, but the most stylish of all are the gauntlet gloves, where the gauntlet cuffs are about four to five inches deep. Good sense has decreed that the gloves should be in an indescribable color, made of the tints left by mud, fruit stains, dust and perspiration all mingled in one. These are not handsome, but they are useful.

There are some very pretty little storm capes of cravatized lined with plaid silk. These are for those who wear no jackets, and they can be rolled up into almost nothing and packed on the wheel. I noticed one made of BB navy blue. This was lined with cardinal silk, and there was a cunning little hood, with an elastic run around it, so that it could be drawn down closely around the face, where it formed a droll but captivating little ruffie. This protects the head and throat, and straps button the cape across the chest.

For those who like the refined neatness of white collars and cuffs on a bicycle ride there are some very pretty ones in celluloid.

LIVING UP TO AN EDUCATION.

How a Good Servant May Be Turned Into a Bad Master.

The question of the higher education of women, although practically settled a long time ago, is still brought up occasionally by malcontents who do not know when they are beaten, and more rarely by persons who have had experience of individual cases where the plan of woman's higher education did not work well. Even the firmest friends of education have to admit that now and then its effect is not entirely satisfactory; that it sometimes makes a self sufficient woman overbearing and imbues a narrow minded one with the conviction that socially and intellectually there is no life worth speaking of outside the collegiate circle.

A woman whose education has disagreed with her in any way is an exception, but such exceptions do exist. The ill consequences may be visible in the form of vanity and self glorification, or as a tendency to domineer, or even in a desire to instruct everybody.

The unfavorable symptom most trying to the woman herself, however, and to those about her is the feeling that she must live up to her education, as it were, and rule her life according to books; that the ordinary pleasures and pains of the great bulk of humanity must be kept at a distance, and that she must sedulously suppress all of her own natural tastes and propensities that do not happen to square with the conventional intellectual standard she had adopted. Instead of appreciating the fact that the object of education of any sort is to broaden and deepen one's perceptions of the realities of life and to enable one to deal with them wisely, she converts it into a strait waistcoat, hampering her natural freedom of thought and action. She praises or condemns according as the critical authorities she has studied praise or condemn, although critical authorities have sometimes proved themselves woefully mistaken.

She assumes that the society of college bred individuals or of those who have achieved a name is alone worth having, whereas experience teaches the candid mind that persons of prominence are frequently much less agreeable and stimulating companions than those to fame unknown. She ignores the possibility that there may be more in life than her college philosophy dreams of. She is on the lookout continually for solecisms of all kinds and is of an inflated sensitiveness regarding them, whether they be real or imaginary, despising at once whomever she fancies guilty of one and miserable if she makes any trifling mistake herself. She judges by the polish of the stone rather than by its intrinsic value. She considers it due to her education to follow some profession, and if she has no definite call in any direction as a woman of this temperament seldom has, she is preyed upon by her inability to decide what to do and by the feeling that she is not fulfilling the obligation her college course has laid upon her.

In short, she turns what should be a good servant into a bad master and strikes a blow at the cause she is so anxious to uphold by convincing her friends that the higher education is a vast mistake, and that the less a woman knows the better for herself and others.

the workers, and as a result over 6,000 of the 17,000 strikers will resume work before Sunday next. The bosses have signed the required bonds that they would faithfully observe the terms of the compact. Nearly 1,000 of the 6,000 of the Brooklyn and Racing Fixtures.There was a large gathering of spectators at the tournament matches yesterday afternoon. In former years very little interest was taken by outsiders in the handicapped singles, but a marked change is noticed this year, which demonstrates how popular lawn tennis has become with Victorians. A good many new men are competing in the event now being played, and consequently their career is watched with peculiar interest.Yesterday five matches were fought and won, thus reducing the number still on the list to ten. The second round has been completed and all but two matches in the third round. The particulars of yesterday's contests were:—C. R. Longe (owes 30), beat H. Payne, (rec. 15), 6-3, 6-1.

E. A. Jacob (acatch), beat C. R. Longe (owes 30), 6-1, 6-5.

(rec. 15), 6-2, 6-1.Jacob, after winning against Longe, started to play Mytton for a place in the semi-finals: after the first set, which Mytton (rec. 30), won with a score of 6-4, an arrangement was made to postpone further hostili-already on the fixtures might be proceeded

The Hamilton papers furnish some particulars respecting Private Hayhurst which will be read with interest by all riflemen:
"Private T. H. Hayhurst, of the Thirtieth Battalion, who won the Queen's prize at Bisley, was born in Kendal, Westmoreland, England, in 1868, and is now 27 years of age. The family is a small one, the only other child being his elder sister, at present a nurse in a hospital in London, Eng.
Private Hayhurst received a good common school education, after which he was brought up to the trade of tool-making. After arriving at more than ordinary proficiency in this branch of industry, the young Englishman left home and went to the United States.
For the greater part of a year he visited various parts of the Union, but did not settle down permanently anywhere. Finally in June of 1893 he located in Hamilton, where he took employment with the Bowman Hardware Company. He had re-mained in their employment some little time when he received the offer of a situation in the Canada tool works, operated by Messrs. John Bertram & Son, in Dundas; he accepted the position, and has remained with the firm since that time.At Hamilton Pte. Hayhurst joined the Thirtieth battalion and was enrolled in E Company, commanded by Captain Osborne.
On June 9, 1893. He was one of the very best members of the company, being steady, reliable and always regular on parade.Even after he had moved to Dundas Pte.
Hayhurst used to visit the city regularly to attend the weekly parade. Unlike a good many of the other crack shots, Pte. Hayhurst did not join merely for the sake of the shooting, but was always on duty and was a soldier through and through. Very recently his father died and he left for the Old Country to administer the estate. His mother still lives in Kendal. Pte. Hayhurst joined the Canadian B'sley team upon its arrival in England. Personally he hopes of the hour is one of the most popular men in the regiment. He is about 5 feet 9 inches in height, broad shouldered and inclined to be stout. He is a very good comrade and a gentleman, and is not afraid to give a competitor advice for fear he might be beaten at the target. He is one of the most reliable authorities on shooting in Canada. Pte. Hayhurst's record as a marksman has been a brilliant one. Before coming to Canada he won the Prince of Wales' prize at Bisley."

LACROSSE.

The next intermediate match is to take place at Nanaimo on August 17, when the Captains expect to add another victory to their list. It has also been arranged that the match with the Beavers of Vancouver, to be played here on the 24th August, will be in connection with the St. Andrew's and Caledonian Society sports. It is also expected that satisfactory arrangements will be made with the directors of the exhibition whereby the Maple Leaves of Westminster and Capitals will play the final championship matches of the season on the exhibition grounds.
